5 Mile Training Plan

The goal of this plan is to safely build your mileage and fitness to prepare to run 5 miles. The plan starts with easy run or run/walk workouts and slowly builds on workout duration, frequency, and intensity each week. As we progress from steady aerobic efforts to hills, we aim to build leg strength. As we transition from hills to faster paced running, the leg strength we built will lead to speed. If at any point the workouts feel like they are too much, ease up your effort to what you can safely and comfortably manage. Every athlete and every body is different! As always, staying healthy and injury free is our #1 goal! If you are new to running or have had a long break from running, aim ease into the workouts with a run/walk approach and target the lower end of the ranges. If you are building on fitness, aim push the upper end of the ranges and challenge yourself!

EZ: Super easy effort (*optional: run/walk or walk)
STEADY: Conversational pace at a moderate effort: you should still be able to speak full sentences while running (*optional: run/walk or walk)
CROSS TRAINING (XT): Pick an activity that will get your heart rate up. Examples: ride your bike or a spin bike, swim, row, jog, walk, home strength work. The goal is to get the body moving and heart rate up from a moderate effort.
HILLS: Find a hill (or bridge or stairs) that takes 1-3 minutes to run or walk up, and do 3-6 repeats with an easy walk/jog back down. Work the "up" part of the hill at a hard effort.

TEMPO: After a 5-10 minute warm up, alternate 3 minutes of moderate paced running or walking with 2 minutes of easy paced running or walking; repeat 4-6 times.
SPEED: After a 5-10 minute warm up, alternate 2 minutes of fast paced running or walking with 1 minute of easy paced running or walking; repeat 6-8 times [add a fun twist: instead of time, alternate speed between mailboxes or telephone poles]
REST: Rest days can be full days off (no exercise) or try to treat your body to some form of active recovery. Examples include: yoga, meditation, bodywork, massage, walk/hike with the family, etc.
